608 Marion Employers Now Comply with NRA

List Continues To Grow; Hatchery Operators and Candy Wholesalers Plan Action.

Evidence of cooperation with the NRA program continued in Marion today as the list of employers filing compliance certificates at the Marion post office reached a total of 608 and reports of other developments came in from the city and district.

Locally plans for compliance with the recovery program were being made by hatcherymen and wholesale candy dealers. Four employees of the J. C. Penney store were given salary increases as of Aug. 1.

In Crestline all barbers agreed upon opening and closing hours and advanced prices to 35 cents for haircuts and 25 cents for shaves.

Penney Increases Pay

Salary increases of five per cent were announced today by Roy J. Garceau manager of the Penney store for employees who were receiving salaries above the minimum wage provision.

The increase will affect four employees. Other employees received salary increases when the store complied with the NRA minimum wage agreement.

Mr. Garceau also said three additional part-time employees have been taken on at the store with expectation of hiring six more after Sept. 1.

In line with local forward steps Miss Mary E. Wood Ohio NRA director told the Associated Press that slightly more than one fourth of all the employers in the state have enlisted under the blue eagle emblem. Miss Wood issued an urgent plea to all other employers to fall in line and fill out reemployment agreements immediately.

Hatcherymen Act. Harry E. Ohls just returned from the National Hatcherymen's convention in Grand Rapids Mich. announced that agreements had been reached which he thought will be adopted by all local hatcherymen.

"The association a code provides, Mr. Ohls said for the elimination of unfair competition sets a standard price for baby chicks puts a fair premium on hatching eggs and allows for sales at prices to insure a fair profit for hatcherymen."

Saturday afternoon an organization known as the Marion Wholesale Confectioners association was formed at a meeting in the Marion Candy & Cigar Co. office on North Main street its officers said in order to cooperate with NRA.

NRA INFLUENCE SPREADING OUT

Fourth of Nation's Forty Million Workers Have Already Felt Effects.

LIMIT NOT YET REACHED

Officials Ready To Push Blue Eagle Into Even Wider Territory.

By The Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—The giant pinions of NRA's blue eagle were held today by officials to be hovering over a quarter of the nation's 40,000,000 workers.

And to assure that the wage raising work-spreading bird would cover even more territory, President Roosevelt and his help launched a new series of meetings to map out the future program.

One was today the first conference between Hugh B. Johnson, national recovery administrator and President Roosevelt since the chief executive returned to Washington from his vacation. Johnson's aide, during his absence in St. Louis for a speech last night reported progress to the President but Mr. Roosevelt wanted a personal discussion with his chief lieutenant.

To Confer Tuesday

Then later today or tomorrow the President is to meet his recovery council to see that all phases of the federal effort to better conditions are being synchronized.

Because the President has accepted much of the advice already given him by Johnson, the expectation was that Mr. Roosevelt would approve an elaboration of the idea the administrator is advancing now, like in his St. Louis speech last night when he said:

"If you see a place where there is none and you do any kind of business there you have a right to ask Brother, where is your blue eagle? And if the answer does not to you seem fair to take your business elsewhere. If every person did that for a week, there would not be a store or a shop or factory in this whole country without its blue eagle."

Estimates Differ. Meanwhile in the absence of data on which to base correct figures, NRA officials declined today to as Dayton: Hotel Clerk Who Refused NRA Head's Request Upheld By Superior.

By The Associated Press. DAYTON, O. Aug. 14—General Hugh Johnson, NRA administrator accompanied by his secretary, Miss Frances Robinson left in his special plane for Washington at 7:15 a. m. today. He landed at Wright field shortly before midnight last night, being forced down by bad weather conditions.

Sylvester Beer, manager of the Miami hotel, where General Johnson and his party were refused lodging because he would not pay for his room in advance today, upheld the action of Paul Myers, the clerk in charge at the time.

"The rule is an old established one in all leading hotels and the clerk had absolute instructions to abide by the ruling to the letter," Beer stated.

Refusing to comply with the demand for advance room payment, General Johnson went to another hotel where he was welcomed.

OLD AND NEW IN CUBA U. S. PROVIDES SAFEGUARDS FOR CITIZENS

Pictured above are some of the principals in the bloody Cuban revolt. In the top photo, Gen. Alberto Herrera, deposed secretary of war is shown with Gerardo Machado, exiled president, at his right. Herrera is reported aboard a boat bound for Jamaica. Machado has fled to the Bahamas while his family arrived in the United States today. At the lower left is Dr. Ceresio Ferrara, secretary of state under Machado, also reported to have landed in this country. Carlos Manuel De Cespedes, the new president, is shown at the right below. The new executive was formerly Cuban minister to the United States.

Man Who Starved, Bled for Cuba Is Now Exiled

Ferrara Driven from Island Where He Helped Lift Spanish Yoke and Create Republic.

By The Associated Press. NEW YORK, Aug. 14 (C. I.)—Ceresio Ferrara who starved and bled that Cuba might be free from Spain was back in the United States today a hated exile from the republic he helped to create.

"His transit gloria—thus passed glory—might well have been the legend on the Pullman coach that bore him last night from Miami to Richmond, Va., where he stopped."

Often hailed as Cuba's savior he was driven from his island country in the revolution that unseated President Machado.

With him was his wife a member of an honored family of the republic a lady whose invitation to dine was once one of the most sought after social prizes in Washington.

Fought Tariff Boost. Until Saturday noon Col. Ferrara was secretary of state of Cuba. Before that he had been ambassador in Washington in that post he had fought an increase in the tariff on sugar advocated by certain senators and had fought so hard that he received the appellation senator slayer.

Through his writings and his speeches he placed before the United States his concept of an autonomous Cuba—a nation free from the implied restrictions of the Platt amendment, by which the United States reserves the right to intervene in Cuba.

Col. Ferrara was by birth an Italian. He is the son of a family whose broad estates and vineyards are known throughout Italy. These estates and revenue from them could have been his—except for Cuba.

As a boy of 19 filled with the aristocratic pride of old Rome he heard of the struggle of Cuba against Spain and set forth to help the revolution. He landed in Cuba by stealth fought as a private and finally rose to the rank of colonel.

He suffered with the soldiers of his adopted land which later made him a citizen. When food ran out he ate dogs cats even snakes to keep alive.

Ferrara turned to journalism. He was credited with assisting the accession of power of Gerardo Machado a politician whom he called the heat leader of the liberal forces. It was he who through the eight years Machado ruled told his friends he believed the dictator was striving to accomplish the greatest good for the greatest number even enemies say he opposed the excesses of cruelty charged to the Machado regime.

But last Saturday machine gun bullets fired by rioting countrymen wild with the knowledge that they had driven their dictator into exile, added the plane in which Ferrara and his wife fled from Havana. When he reached Miami police rescued him from a hostile demonstration.

Thus today Col. Ferrara soldier journalist diplomat professor and man—came back to New York a bewildered exile.

Swanson said the naval vessels carried the regular complement of marines.

Two U. S. Warships In Havana Harbor

By The Associated Press. HAVANA, Aug. 14—As two United States ships of war steamed into Havana harbor today to protect American property renewed outbreaks of looting and arson impelled the Cuban military authorities to order their soldiers to fire on all persons violating public order.

Carlos Manuel De Cespedes, the new president completed a cabinet which virtually ignored the claims of all of the old political parties, and the principal followers of the deposed president, Gerardo Machado, followed their leader's example by fleeing the island.

By The Associated Press. KEY WEST, Fla., Aug. 14—The wife, three daughters and other members of the immediate family of deposed President Machado of Cuba, arrived here today aboard the private yacht General Juan Bruno Zayas.

Machado de Obregon, Dr. Baldomero Grau, Rafael Jorge Sanchez and Jose Emilio Obregon, sons in law and Maria de Los Angeles Grau, Gisela Sanchez, Luigardita Sanchez, Maria Elvira Obregon and Josefina Obregon grand children.

Word of the arrival of the Machado yacht in the Key West channel quickly spread in the city and by the time it had reached the dock the surrounding streets were filled with people. There was no evidence of hostility.

Sheriff Karl Thompson requested military protection to assist him and deputies in handling the crowd in event of trouble and Lieut. Colonel Woodward, ranking officer of the Florida National guard, arrived on the scene with 20 members of the guard. Police also aided in handling the crowd which was not permitted to go to the docks.

U.S. Geodetic Survey To Be Made Through This Area

Special to The Star
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 15—Towers, some of them as high as 90 feet, will begin to rise in the area south of Marion and north of Columbus within the new few weeks as the United States coast and geodetic survey extends triangulation across Ohio to Indiana and continues on to the Mississippi river.
In Ohio 14 sites for the towers have been chosen by a large force of engineers who have completed their preliminary work.
The towers will be used in accurately observing from one point to the other and recording the exact longitude and latitude as a guide in all boundary surveys.
The work is to be financed from a $500,000 allotment made to the bureau by the public works division of the Recovery Administration.
Equipment and forces will be moved over from western Pennsylvania in time to complete the east-west checkup of Ohio before cold weather, when the activity will be shifted to the south.
This work was put on the emergency program because the marks are of vital importance in many kinds of engineering work. All of the towers are of knockdown construction, the materials being used over and over again as observations are completed from each point in various directions. Some of the towers can be set up in a few hours and removed as quickly. An improved structure holds the instruments rigidly while the operator climbs the outer tower to make observations.

Federal Agent Tells of Need for Wheat Production

Wheat farmers in Marion county, in common with those over the country, are faced with a serious domestic and world problem. R. H.
Gilbert, emergency agricultural assistant who is launching the government's wheat reduction program in Marion county, said today.
Foreign trade barriers and increased production in foreign countries have resulted, Gilbert said, in a tremendous decrease in this country's exports of wheat.
This situation has brought about a surplus of wheat in this country.
The wheat reduction program, Gilbert said, is a measure to prevent adding to this surplus and give the farmer a steadier, more normal price for his crops and insure him a reasonable return for his efforts.
Indirectly, through increasing the farmers' purchasing power, it is expected to improve the nation's economic condition by starting a price rise and business activity.
In the next two or three weeks, Gilbert expects to have county-wide activity under way in enlisting farmers in the program to restrict Marion county's wheat production by between 10 and 20 per cent next year. Similar activity is in progress in 42 states.
Benefit payments of approximately 28 cents a bushel will be paid each farmer for his share of the county's allotment of 209,890 bushels, estimated to be that percentage of the county's production which is domestically consumed.
An object of the program is to place this country's wheat production on a domestic consumption basis, to escape the influence of depressing world wheat prices.

Useful Beard

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., 14—Balbo finished a great trip, and Mussolini and all Italy kissed him fervently on both cheeks.
Now we know why he was growing that beard.
If you see a strange man hiding in the bushes around your place, it's more than apt to be an ex-president of Cuba.
I see by the papers that during the kidnapping epidemic, a well patriotically agreed to not sell them to gangsters—till they have used up the ones they have.

foretold by the propitious reign of potent stars. The energies and faculties will be pitched to high states of achievement, backed by indubitable persistency, patience and practical industry and application to affairs under attack.
Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which their own energy, attack, initiative, backed up by perseverance and hard work may put over some fine constructive ventures and enterprises. Much progress and success of high order await such application and industry.
A child born on this day should be energetic, resource-

Homemaker's Question Box

Question—What points should be kept in mind in arranging the salad?

Answer—Be especially careful about the arrangement of the salad ingredients in the bowl or on the plate. Shape the lettuce leaves like a cup or nest to hold the salad. Leaf lettuce may be shredded and served as a garnish, or the salad or as a garnish. Do not hesitate to use garden leaf salad. Experimental work reveals that it is somewhat higher in iron and vitamin content than head lettuce. Attractive garnishes such as watercress, parsley, curled celery, radish roses, pickle fans, red and green pepper rings, hard cooked eggs, beets cut in fancy shapes, etc., for the vegetable or meat salad—cherries, coconut, jelly cut in small cubes, mini springs, nuts, etc., in balls or shaped as little carrots, apples, berries in season such as strawberries, red and black raspberries, and blackberries, whipped cream, etc. for the salad, make the salad itself irresistible.

Another Billion.

Harry L. Hopkins, federal administrator of relief, makes a timely reminder of a pending problem which the country must be permitted to forget in its enthusiasm over better times. At least a billion dollars will be needed for relief this winter, warns Mr. Hopkins. The federal government has made half that sum available. Its funds must be matched by the states.

Relief from the burden of helpless families has not been afforded in the generous portions that the more optimistic may be inclined to imagine. Contrary to expectations, there have been in many centers of population increases instead of decreases in the number of families dependent on relief agencies.
Officials assign this strange condition partially to the transfer of responsibility to state agencies from private agencies. Significantly, in many cases where the number of families has increased, the cost of caring for them has decreased.

Administrators of relief are acutely conscious of a fact which sometimes escapes the attention of the general public. That fact is the long pull that still stretches out ahead of relief organizations. It is well to note in this connection that if reemployment were to continue at its present rate with no setbacks it probably would be three more years before the relief burden would assume the proportions it had before the depression.

Honest analysis of the things that appear in the long view makes mention of the probability that the United States will have a permanent problem of providing funds for indigents. The machine continues to make its inroads on human employment.
Thousands of jobs which existed before the depression have been sacrificed to operating costs. It is reasonably certain that inventors have been busy making new machines which will be placed in operation when a chance becomes economically feasible.
Relief must go on. It must continue through the coming winter at a cost of one billion dollars—a figure which may represent a fixed item in the overhead cost of operating an industrial state.

Champion of the World.

Primo Carnera's unexpected decision to let Europe pay for the privilege of seeing him in action before he gives the United States another chance is a rude reminder that the big boxer became champion of the world when he conquered the lately ebullient Sharkey. Despite the fact that the championship is marked plainly "Made in America," Carnera is going to try to swap it for real money on the other side of the Atlantic.

This is an unexpected chicken come home to roost on the furrowed brows of American promoters. Little did they suspect when they went abroad to get heavyweight talent that they might be making trouble for themselves. In all probability, they were conscious of so much trouble trying to keep their business going that they couldn't imagine how there could be any more.

Carnera is an Italian boy. As the first Italian to break into the top rank of the lucrative heavyweight business, he probably is a fairly popular Italian boy who will pull a heavy gate in a match with almost anyone willing to fight him in Rome. The logical contender, of course, is Max Baer, the Dempsey protégé, but Baer is a Californian, Paulino Lucadun, a neighbor lad from Spain, gets the call consequently.
The coming match is only the least of the dark troubles clustered around the heavyweight industry here. Two good fights—Baer versus Schmeling and Carnera versus Sharkey—had set the stage for a cleanup with Baer and Carnera slugging it out to the tinkle of many, many dollars. But just when everything was beginning to look up Carnera stole the ball and ran home with it. Someone apparently has persuaded him to take the "world" part of his title seriously.

A Modern President.

Recently, the President of the United States visited a settlement of New York City children at Bowdoin Farm on the Hudson river. It was an occasion of no political importance whatever, a visit which would have passed without notice if the visitor had been anyone else but the nation's chief executive.

Yet, in a brief speech which Mr. Roosevelt delivered to his young hosts there was one of those gems of intimate social revelation which historians treasure when they find them in the dusty records of the past.
Many times the casual words of a man reveal more about himself and the thinking of his times than the most profound statements.

On this occasion, President Roosevelt said "I think that more and more we are discovering the appreciation of the farm. At least, the farm has an assurance that we will never starve to death. Alas, when you are on the farm you know full well you will never be millionaires, but there are lots of things in life other than growing exceedingly rich. You have assurance of a competence and a place for your children among healthy surroundings."

There is, significantly, nothing in the President's thought which is strange to currently popular conceptions. That is proof that the ideas of a people change so slowly that there rarely is consciousness of change, for it was not many years ago that a President of the United States would not have considered it discreet to tell youngsters that making money is not the most worthwhile thing in life.

During the period of rapid expansion in the United States—a period which extended roughly from the middle of the 19th century to the beginning of the World war—adding to the capital resources of the nation was a fundamental virtue. So important was the money-maker in the scheme of American living that he was given the privilege of making his own code of conduct. Opportunity was described in terms of the right to become wealthy.

Probably no single conception has done more damage to the cultural development of Americans, yet it was a conception which grew naturally from prevailing circumstances. Those circumstances have been altered. A President of the United States —a man born with a gold spoon in his mouth—can tell children of his countrymen that wealth is not everything. A milestone in civilization has been passed.

Good Faith—Bad Faith.

It cannot be denied that the ordinary American has had plenty of opportunities in the last few weeks to witness what appear to him as manifestations of bad faith in dealing with the principles of the national recovery program. He has seen employers using shameless subterfuges to avoid real compliance with those principles while outwardly giving an appearance of cooperation.

These signs of selfish individualism have been perpetrated to blight enthusiasm in many places. Seeing them, persons inclined to be skeptical of the administration's ability to arouse a spirit of enlightened selfishness have concluded that the whole program is based on a thing which doesn't exist. Such people have reconciled themselves to the shock of seeing a collapse of the recovery program.

They are justified in admitting to themselves and their neighbors that they are witnessing examples of bad faith. That is part of the process of enforcement by public opinion which the recovery administration is depending on to make NRA an effective force. There is, however, a question as to the wisdom of concluding from examples of bad faith that the recovery program is doomed to failure.

To the eyes of those who are looking for them there are numerous examples of good faith—a number sufficient to warrant the declaration that Americans are witnessing a revolution in the attitude of employers of labor. It was to be expected that many of them would have no scruples about avoiding the principle of recovery by higher wages and reemployment. It was to be hoped that many of them would respond. Both the expectation and the hope have been answered with examples.

There has been, despite numerous exceptions, a stirring display of national faith—a sweeping manifestation of the country's ability to cure itself by cooperative action. It should be upon this type of evidence that conclusions are based. There is a reason to believe yet that those who believe in the recovery program and who are willing to work for it can be defeated by those who have set their hearts and hands against it.

Farewell To Dentists.

An Ohio dentist, Dr. Hugh MacMillan of Cincinnati, has made more news for the centennial congress of dentists by declaring that teeth are on the way out. The profession of dentistry is doing its part. It must be admitted, but the real specialist in extraction is a mode of living that rapidly is making teeth passe.

Backing up his declaration with a favorite theory, Dr. MacMillan takes refuge in the old one about predigested foods which will be taken into the stomach in capsule form. When that happens, the tooth will be a useless appendage whose fate will be immediate extraction on appearance.

Exception is taken to the doctor's statement on two points. In the first place, it is hard to prove that anything as essential as teeth will disappear from humanity's heritage. Dentists, themselves, argue that teeth are becoming more perfect on the average than they used to be, despite the fact they are used less. Humanity never has been more tooth conscious than during the last few generations, due to the emphasis placed on teeth by medical science and a growing realization that good teeth are an aid to appearance.

The assumption that human beings ever will be willing to forego the pleasure of sacrificing the sense of taste to food capsules is not plausible. As long as teeth continue to be used for chewing there will be teeth. Dr. MacMillan would have to grant that much. However, he already has granted it will be 100,000,000 years before dentists will be out of a job.
In reality, there's no argument. No reasonable person is brash enough to assume there will be any human beings or dentists left by that time.

Without Benefit of Cosmetics.

One of the recent stories of social policy under Adolf Hitler's remarkable dictatorship in Germany concerns the barring of women using cosmetics from Nazi meetings. It is assumed that this represents an incidental phase of the blood-and-iron policy by which fascism maintains the illusion of extraordinary strength.

The order gives rise to a lurking question on the appeal of Hitlerism to German womanhood. The chancellor's peculiar type of dictatorship seems to direct its appeal primarily to men, or at least to those traits in the German people which are classified most easily as masculine. Can women be expected to respond to the same appeal?

It is conceivable that, fired by enthusiasm for the recovery Chancellor Hitler has promised, a considerable number of women might line up enthusiastically behind this remarkable exponent of simplicity and strength. But it is impossible to believe that his appeal will find universal responsiveness in the milder sex.

As far as cosmetics are concerned, even Herr Hitler would have to concede that they have been in use a very long time. While the anecdotes of modern Nordics were chasing each other through the big woods with lethal intentions, Egyptian ladies were daubing their cheeks and eyelids with color and painting their toenails.

It has been going on pretty consistently ever since.
Throughout the world, cosmetics have been accepted as a satisfactory means of finishing artistically what nature has left undone. German women probably share in that belief. If Chancellor Hitler succeeds in setting them to turn out at Nazi meetings without benefit of cosmetics, it will have to be conceded that he is almost as omnipotent as he wants to be.

The Menace of Electric Shock.

A recent newspaper clipping tells of the untimely death of a noted citizen, accidentally electrocuted in his bathtub. Evidently he touched an electric outlet and received the fatal shock. This danger is greater than most persons realize. It is probable that many of my readers saw the same news item and yet they failed to get the proper warning of this danger.

Electric shock occurs when the body is moist or wet. This accident is usually traced to the unwise habit of reaching for the electric light or telephone while standing or sitting in a bathtub. When the body is wet, it serves as a conductor for the current of electricity. Of course the accident cannot occur unless the electric device is defective.

Sometimes a current of at least 110 volts passes through the body.
Even a lower voltage may be sufficient to cause instantaneous death. This is especially true if the victim is well on in years and has heart disease. The current sends the muscles of the heart into violent spasms and stops the normal action of that organ.

Loose fixtures, improper wiring and poorly insulated electric outlets are a menace to every member of the family. This danger is increased when the current comes in contact with a moistened body surface or open cut or abrasion of the skin.

I cannot overemphasize this danger. I want to warn all my readers to avoid contact with electrical fixtures and wires which may be defective or insufficiently insulated.
Do not touch or fuss with electrical appliances if you are not clothed, or if your skin is moist from perspiration or from bathing.

Never undertake to attach an electric iron, percolator or other electrical instrument if your hands are wet. It is a good plan to dry your hands always before you handle an electric fan or vacuum cleaner. This precaution is especially imperative during warm weather when the palms of the hands are moist and clammy from perspiration.

A committee, formed by the American Society of Safety Engineers is at present endeavoring to minimize the dangers of household electrical appliances. But safety can only be assured by the co-operation of every individual.

If you have an old electrical appliance in your home, such as an electric toaster, percolator, curling iron or laundry iron, I advise that you have the wiring changed occasionally. — Copyright, 1933, King

Daily Talk to Parents

CHURCH.

TOO MUCH A MOTHER.

It is often the tendency of the conscientious mother to take her self over seriously.

She is inclined to devote herself with whole-souled intensity to the study and care of her children as if her own life as an individual had ceased with their birth.

She gives up her own interests, reads books or attend lectures on child culture and child psychology, and loses touch with her old friends in an attempt to follow the children's pursuits.

She is the bane of school-teachers whose routine is interrupted constantly by mothers absorbed in their maternity for fruitless discussion of individual children and their needs and peculiarities.

The mother who lays down her own identity for the sake of her children makes a sacrifice which is both useless and harmful as well for the children as for herself. The children's sense of their own importance is increased out of reason, and in the end they are left unfit to cope with the world.

These very children who have been studied and tested and allowed and encouraged to express themselves, are very likely to have a rude awakening when they come into contact with real life, stripped of all the artificial props and protections.

And when the sacrifice is complete, and the children have gone out into the world, the mother suddenly finds her life empty of all interests and ties. It is too late for her to start again, even if she feels the inclination to do so.

She is a rare woman, then, if she does not clutch her children demanding of them a devotion and attention which may well thwart and embitter their lives.

Highlights of Ohio History

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

WHEN JOHN QUINCY ADAMS WAS A POLITICIAN.

Though John Quincy Adams was characteristically benevolent minded, especially in his later years, he led reluctantly in the movement to abolish slavery. In 1807, when John Smith, one of Ohio's original part of United States had been convinced with Aaron Burr in the conspiracy, for the sole reason that on Burr's trip down the Ohio he for the start of the expedition, Smith had entertained him at his home in Cincinnati. Senator Smith and his friends claimed that this was nothing more than ordinary courtesy on the part of a senator who knew nothing about Burr's alleged treasonable intentions.

Senator Adams was named chairman of a senate committee to act on a question of allowing Smith to retain his seat. Although Burr was acquitted and every indictment but that of Senator Smith nolle prossed, Senator Adams and his committee took the attitude that the senate was not to be bound by the ordinary rules of evidence and court procedure and they recommended Smith's expulsion because a presumption of guilt was declared to be there. The senate voted 19 to 10 to expel, not the necessary two-thirds, but Senator Tiffin, Smith's colleague, was one who voted against him, so Smith immediately resigned. He moved to St.
Francisville, La., where he died in 1824, humiliated by the event.

The Marry-Go-Round

BY HELEN ROWLAND.

DENATURED MARRIAGE.

Somebody is always trying to denature marriage. Somebody is always inventing a new gadget for the dear old institution to make it easier and smoother, or trying to camouflage it, so that you won't recognize it.

You'd fancy it was castor oil! Or spinal! If half the ingenuity had been expended in inventing new ways of disguising spinach and carrots, that has been used up in trying to make marriage seem like "something different," this would be a better and sweeter world.

Already, we have more than 57 varieties of marriage to choose from. You can take it straight, as grandmother did—the old-fashioned marriage, in which the husband bosses the house and brings home the bacon, and the wife sews on his buttons and says "Yes, darling."

Or you can have the 50-50 brand, in which both members of the firm bring home pay envelopes and have a vote.

You can have a whole-time "til-death-us-do-part" marriage; or you can choose a part-time "until-we-bore-each-other" marriage. You can marry for life, for love, for convenience, for adventure—or just for a trip to Reno.

But, it seems that all this was not quite enough. Not sufficiently far from the basic idea and the original meaning of marriage, to disguise the flavor. Some poor, unhappy "victim" of wedlock might suspect that he was really married.

So now, with the approval of a number of authors and psychologists, an absolutely new and positive form of marriage being exploited. The most im-pishly denatured brand of marriage ever suggested!

According to this new theory, husband and wife should not attempt to live together in the same house. They should have separate quarters, in the same city, pen-but not so near as to get on each other's nerves or to squabble in the shower or listen in on each other's telephone calls.

PARTY LEADERS OF 3 STATES TO MEET

Duckworth Club Will Rally at Coney Island in Cincinnati.

By International News Service CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 14.—Democratic party figures from Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky will rally at Coney Island here, Saturday, Aug. 18, for the annual convocation of the Duckworth club, a political organization whose summer assemblies are known for their brilliant oratory from coast to coast.

State Senator Edward N. Wadsworth, chairman of arrangements, has the definite acceptance of Representative Joseph W. Byrns, Tennessee, as principal speaker of the day. Byrns is expected to deliver an important keynote at the outing.

Lieutenant Governor Charles A. Sawyer, Glendale, and Mrs. Anna F. O'Neil, Akron, member of the Ohio house of representatives, are others listed among the speakers. It is likely that Governor George White will come here for the Duckworth rally if official business will allow. Governor White attended the 1932 outing.

William J. Leonard, Democratic party leader here, and James J. Bass, secretary of the arrangements committee, are directing a busy contact program to assure widespread representation at the outing. Athletic events at Coney Island will precede the formal dinner and speakers program.

Judge Edward T. Dixon, chairman of the Ohio liquor control commission, is president of the Duckworth club. He will be toastmaster at the Aug. 19 dinner.

NRA IN PRISON

County Jail Groups Refuses To Move Over 40 Hours.

By International News Service YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 14.—A clique of prisoners in the Mahoning county jail here used the NRA as a weapon to escape work. They refused to report for work, maintaining that they had already worked 40 hours that week. Authorities, surprised at the action and uncertain whether the NRA did apply to prisoners after all, failed to press the matter. While more willing prisoners did the chores, the NRA adherents loafed in the bull pen of the lock up.

BAD BRAKES ARE MENACE

Fatal automobile accidents due to bad brakes during the first four months of 1933 increased 29 per cent over the same period for 1932, according to a statement today by W. J. Parker, commissioner of the Asbestos Brake Lining association, who cited figures released by The Travelers Insurance statistical bureau.

"These figures are serious enough in themselves," said Mr. Parker, "but when it is remembered that this increase comes during a year when registrations are at least 10 per cent less than they were 12

JUMBOS RIDE HIGH ON SHIFTING SANDS

There is a firm in Marion which is performing a double service of great economic value to the entire community. The Marion Iron & Metal Co., at Center and Leader streets, buys useless and wrecked cars, paying cash for them. These cars then are dismantled and the good parts are placed in bins. The parts, which are as good as new for all practical purposes, are sold at prices far below their actual value, thus enabling the motorists of this community to repair their cars at the lowest possible cost.

Whatever make of car you are driving, it is very likely that you can get any kind of part you may need at the Marion Iron & Metal Co. Tires, tubes, radiators, gears, transmission assemblies, universal joints, differentials, carburetors, valves, generators, starting motors, window and windshield glass, horns, luggage carriers, wheels—in fact anything you may need can be had at a money-saving price. The stock of parts carried on hand at all times is so large that they could assemble almost any make of car from the "pieces."

If you are planning on driving the "old bug" another year or two rather than go to the expense of buying a new car, it would be a good idea to check over your car and make a list of the parts you need. Then drop around to the Marion Iron & Metal Co. office and yards at Center and Leader streets, and you'll be surprised how cheaply they can be replaced with good used ones.

For boys are tough on shoes. Dad can take the boots or shoes that Sonny has knocked into helplessness to the Nu-Way Shoe Repair Shop at 125 West Center street, which has been caring for youngsters' shoes for a long time. If they are worth saving, and a surprisingly large number of them are, the Nu-Way can fix them right, and do it for a reasonable price, too.

Then Dad may save enough for that box of cigars he has been promising himself since last Christmas.

Farmers Can Boost Crop Yield By Use of Limestone Product

The Ohio Blue Limestone Co. of Marion can help the farmer's crop yield to a great extent. Their soil sweetener, Agstone, by guaranteed analysis, as requested by the state of Ohio, contains a minimum of 30.07% calcium and 4.74% magnesium, a neutralizing power in terms of calcium carbonate of not less than 95%.

Many extra dollars can be had from crops after the land has been treated with Agstone, and the Ohio Blue Limestone Co. has the equipment to spread this material.

Clover will produce nearly four times and timothy three times as many tons an acre from Agstone-treated lands.

Corn, oats, wheat and many small crops are greatly benefitted. The cost is small compared to the increased yield in dollars received for the crop.

It is much cheaper to treat the land than to buy high priced protein feeds. Your dollars spent for Agstone work harder and multiply faster.

Phone 2453, ask for a booklet explaining this money making product.

SITUATED IN CHEERY SPOT

Accessible Location Makes It Convenient Place for Private Parties

About two miles south of Marion on the Delaware pike is located an ideal inn as you could imagine all its name implies. "Pleasant Inn."

The surroundings are pleasing, the lawn neatly kept with plenty of shade trees, and a parking lot for your convenience, chairs and tables on the lawn, a truly pleasant spot. The management, moreover, is continually striving to make the surroundings more inviting.

You really get a thrill when you step inside. The large front room is little short of a miniature ballroom, polished hardwood floors and space at one end for an orchestra. Yet the dance floor is plenty large.

The adjoining rooms are arranged with booths, comfortable ones where the refreshments may be enjoyed in semi-private. Meals or short orders may be had at reasonable prices.

Next time you are wondering what to do for an evening, drive out, expecting to enjoy yourself for you surely will. You don't have to dance, but you'll probably want to.

Special parties may be arranged either afternoon or evenings. Phone 16454 and let them know what entertainment you wish, whether its steak or chicken for dinner and leave it to the management to more than meet your expectations.

REPORT IS MADE ON RISE IN BREAD PRICE

Average is 1.4 Cents for Pound Loaf, Survey Shows.

By The Associated Press WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—The average price of a pound loaf of white bread in 15 representative cities rose about 14 cents from Feb. 15 to Aug. 2.

But in making this report today through the farm adjustment administration, Dr. Fred C. Howe, consumers' counsel added:

"Considering the increase in material costs, the moderateness of this advance in average price reflects the cooperative spirit with which the bakers of these cities have lived up to the president's Secretary William B. Eckerly's association that they would do their best to limit bread price advances to the increase in ingredient and other production costs."

This compilation, first of a series intended to tell the public whether it is paying exorbitant prices for foodstuffs, showed the average price of the pound loaf in cities named was 7.8 cents on Aug. 2 and that in the period studied the cost of ingredients in a pound loaf had increased 13 cents.

The bread report, Dr. Howe said, was based on a check made of 12 stores in each city, including chain stores, independent and retail bakers.

About half of the 13 cents rise in the cost of bread ingredients, the report continued, was due to the processing tax on wheat, the remainder to higher prices for the grain and other material used in the ordinary white bread loaf.

BROTHERS TO BE EXECUTED TONIGHT

Two Cincinnati Men Scheduled To Die for Slaying of Bank Cashier.

By The Associated Press COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 14—Two brothers are to be executed at Ohio penitentiary tonight for the murder of Harry Ehrhoff, Silverton bank cashier, during a holdup.

A third brother, convicted of complicity in the same crime, will remain behind to serve a life sentence in the penitentiary.

The doomed men are James and Joseph Murphy, of Cincinnati, Negro youths. The life is their brother Ben.

The two were to have died July 14. A closing effort by counsel to stay their execution brought forward Mrs. Mildred M. Bonnie of Cincinnati, to testify she was a witness to the holdup and the youths were not the slayers she saw.

Governor White allowed a 30-day reprieve. The state parole board renewed their investigation. The board reported to the governor Saturday. He announced then he would intervene no further.

ALABAMA PRISONERS SEIZED; TWO LYNCHED

Third Missing After Being Spirited Away from Sheriff by Mob.

By The Associated Press TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Aug. 14—One of three Negroes spirited away by a lynching party was still missing today after the bodies of his two companions were found riddled by bullets.

The three, Dan Pippen Jr., 18, Elmore Clark, 28, and A. T. Harden, 18, had been indicted for killing Miss Vaudine Maddox, 21-year-old white girl, whose battered body was found in a ravine.

Police said that as a result of rumors of a threatened attack on the jail here, they decided to remove the prisoners to Birmingham, for safekeeping. Sheriff R. L. Shambelin said that on the way, the party was halted yesterday near the Jefferson county line by two automobile loads of armed men, who seized the Negroes.

Later the bodies of Rippen and Harden were found near Blocton, Ga. Miller ordered a grand jury investigation.

Bitter criticism came from the international labor defense, radical organization. Lawyers for the I. L. D. had sought to represent Pippen but were ruled out.

Sheriff Shambelin charged feeling aroused by the interference of the international labor defense lawyers in the case is directly responsible for this violence.
